Yunus Erdem:

“IN CINEMA WE COMBINE TECHNOLOGY with smiling faces and comfort.”

Cinetime brings the newest films to movie lovers with theaters equipped with the latest technology. Cinetime also hosts premieres of the most popular films in recent years. Cinetime’s operations are entrusted to Yunus Erdem, Cinema Operations Manager. We asked Mr. Erdem, who we came together with at ÖzdilekPark İstanbul, about the history of Cinetime, the gala organizations they host, their goals and many other details.

Interview by Nazlı Sancaklı Photos by Haydar Erçin

Can we get to know you a little better?

I was born in 1989 in Bandırma, Balıkesir. I lived in Bandırma during the years leading up to my high school education. In 2013 I graduated from Selçuk University Faculty of Communication, Department of Public Relations and Publicity. After completing my military service, I took the first step towards my career by applying to Özdilek with the recommendation of Ufuk Uçur, the current manager of Özdilek Bolu Hypermarket. I was assigned to the hypermarket department of Özdilek Yalova. Then, in 2017, I worked as a market manager in Bursa Kaplıkaya for about a year. I have been working as the director of cinema operations for 8 months. Although cinema takes place in retail processes, the functioning of cinema differs. Deputy General Manager of Retail Operations Ahmet İri’s knowledge and experience in the field of cinema allowed me to adapt quickly despite the difference of my new position. In addition, because the foundation of cinema is based on communication and because effective communication is among my basic principles inherently, it has enabled me to consolidate this process.

Cinetime is an Özdilek brand. Can we learn about the story behind it? Which dynamics were taken into account when investing in this area?

In 1998 Özdilek started cinema management at Özdilek Kocaeli. Today Özdilek has an important role within the sector with its 8,005 seat capacity at 9 separate locations across Turkey.

“As we stepped into the industry of cinema, we aimed to be more intertwined with our guests.”

Cinetime serves in the provinces of Antalya, Bursa, İstanbul, Düzce, Eskişehir, Manisa Turgutlu, Kocaeli, Uşak and Yalova. Cinetime, with approximately 19 years of experience, has 39 3-D and 73 movie theaters, 2 of which are equipped with Atmos sound technology. With our recent investments, we have completely changed the interior designs of our theaters and foyers in our branches in Eskişehir, Yalova, Kocaeli and Antalya. Our aim is to apply the Cinetime image that we have created in our new branches to our old branches as well, thus bringing our customers together with technology, smiling faces and comfort. We also exhibit posters of cult films on the walls of our foyers. We aim to bring together the building blocks of cinema with our audiences by not forgetting about its history. We apply Özdilek’s quality and satisfaction sensitivity on quality work and customer satisfaction during cinema operations. Özdilek is a brand that gives importance to effective communication. For this reason, we aim to be more intertwined with our guests while stepping into the cinema sector. A new film means new activity and new activity means communication with more people.

What are your main tasks as director of cinema operations? Can you tell us about your business?

My primary duties include preparing film programs for upcoming periods and creating weekly film plans. The priority of these plans is firstly the movies in theaters, but this can vary according to the expectations of our audiences. We are in touch with film distributors and producers to negotiate theater plans. For films which have recently come to theaters or are yet to come, we plan film screenings and galas in order to bring actors and audiences together. In addition to all these plans, it is among my other duties to ensure sales, up - to - date technology, marketing and budget management follow - ups.

We know that you have hosted the premieres of many films. What is your perspective on film premieres? What do you pay attention to during these events? What are the benefits they have for you?

In the last quarter of 2018, we hosted the premiere of the film “Yol Arkadaşım / My Fellow Traveller” at Eskişehir and Antalya. Later on we organized the premieres of “Hedefim Sensin / You Are My Target” and “Şampiyon / The Champion” at Bursa and Eskişehir. In 2019, on the report card day we held the premiere of the children’s film “Can Dostlar / Dearest Friends”. We care about film premieres very much as they support our brand awareness. There is also an increase of visitors at shopping centers where premieres are organized. This also reflects positively on the tenant brands at Özdilek shopping centers.

As Cinetime, we know that you give great importance to customer satisfaction and complaints. What criteria do you consider when evaluating your feedback?

Wishes and complaints reach us through our website, social media accounts and customer service lines. We record all of the instantaneous returns and we contact customers one by one, in a short amount of time. When necessary, I call the customers myself. For instance, a group of students in Düzce, expressed to us that they wanted to watch the film “Bohemian Rhapsody” but couldn’t because our shopping center was not showing it. When we got such a request, we started screening the film. Another example can be of a customer in Uşak who wanted to watch a film with subtitles. However, the hours in which the subtitled film was screened did not coincide with the business hours of our customer’s. We found out which hours the customer would be available and screened a subtitled version of the film. Satisfying even one person increases our motivation. In other words, we try to evaluate the demands of all our customers with precision. We also continue to work on customer feedback for the upcoming period. For example, in line with our customer’s wishes, we will screen award - winning films once every Wednesday under the name of “Başka Çarşamba / Alternative Wednesday”. For the time being, we will start this activity in Bursa, Antalya, Düzce, Uşak and Kocaeli. I think it will increase more over time.

You are surrounded by culture, art and entertainment. Your work must be enjoyable. Can we get your comments too? Does your job motivate you?

I am a communications graduate as well as a person who likes to communicate. I believe that ninety percent of cinema consists of communication. The fact that cinema is a sector that updates itself weekly and the contribution that galas and screenings attended by actors have on Cinetime also reflecting on our shopping centers, are points of motivation for me. In addition, to follow the reviews of film critics and the festivals our preferred films have attended add new concepts to our perspective. If I were to talk about the most enjoyable part of our business I would say that it is spending time in the foyers of our cinemas, where I can consult with audiences on their thoughts about the screening films of the week. Our audiences’ current comments help me think about our selection of films and gain a new perspective. Also, seeing the interaction within the movie theater where famous actors and audiences are given a chance to meet increases the excitement for the next organization.

What was 2018 like for Cinetime?

In 2018 we brought our audience of 2.5 million together with 300 new films. The number of cinema audiences in 2018 fell behind with 70,405,911 than those in 2017 by -1%. At the top of the list was the film “Müslüm” while the second was “Arif v 216.” The film which rated in the top ten and met with 1,910,000 audiences was “Avengers: Infinity War.” The film’s awaited second final half, “Avengers: Endgame” will come to theaters on April 26, 2019. In 2018, Turkish - made animations, which were generally in demand, were screened. “Rafadan Tayfa Dehliz Macerası / Soft - boiled Crew The Tunnel Adventure” came in 8th with a total of 1,786,000 views. I believe that in 2019 the films “Organize İşler: Sazan Sarmalı / Organized Stuff: The Carp Spiral”, “Recep İvedik 6”, “Karakomik Filmler / Black Comedy Films” and “Mucize 2 / The Miracle 2” will create audience density.

Could you tell us about your work on social media?

We believe that social media is an integral part of cinema because target audiences want to get informed about the coming out movies they follow. This is why we use social media actively. By sharing information of the films on our accounts, we communicate with our followers instantly. Before the gala and screenings, we post photos and videos shared by the actors on social media and we make an extra contribution to brand awareness by posting live broadcasts during the events. The fact that our website has reached 4 million clicks in 2018 can be considered as an indicator that we are communicating correctly.

A man with short dark hair, wearing a blue suit jacket, white shirt, and patterned tie, stands in front of a wall with vertical yellow rectangular panels. He is smiling slightly and has his hands clasped in front of him. A small orange logo is visible on the lapel of his jacket.

“In 2018 we brought our audience of 2.5 million together with 300 new films.”

MİNE ÇAYIROĞLU

made for musical.”*

We made an enjoyable interview with Mine Çayıroğlu, engraved in our memory with her Munise character that she gave life to in “Çalığışu / The Wren” at the age of six, about cinema, theater and music. We got together with Çayıroğlu, who returned to the screens after a long break, at Cinetime İstanbul and talked about her past projects, the emotional effects they had on her and her ideals about the future.

Interview by Ece Şentürk Photos by Onur Yurtsever

Your exuberant energy is reflected in your gaze. Cinema, theater and music... In short, years filled with art... Can we learn about Mine Çayıroğlu from the one and only?

I am interested in many branches of art, but especially cinema and music are indispensable for me. Although I started cinema at the age of six, I wanted to do something with music even as a child. So it was my first dream to be more of a singer than to play an instrument. I was creating musicals for myself in my home plays. Since my acting adventure started at a very young age, cinema shortly later became my profession. I took part in the production of cinema, theater and many television series. I also acted on my dream to sing and released two albums and performed stage performances.

Can you tell us about the theater trainings you have received in Turkey and abroad?

During my acting career, which I started as a cynic at the age of six, I thought it was necessary to receive education as time passed because an actress must always improve herself in every way possible. From this point of view, I did research and realized I especially wanted to study in England. The reason I preferred England was because I thought England is the heart of theater and on top in terms of acting. That's why my first choice was England. If I didn't go to school in England, I was thinking about going to America. I'm glad I studied in England. I passed the challenging exams, which took place in three stages. Two of these exams were aptitude tests and the final one was a face - to - face interview. For this exam, I knocked at Haluk Bilginer's door. He agreed to help me practice. As a result, I got accepted for three years of training at the Guildford School of Acting, one of the six major drama schools in the UK. That's when I was in my 20s. It had been my great dream to be educated at this school ever since my secondary school years. At the time, there aired the TV series “Fame.” As I watched this series, I made it a goal and said, “I want to study at such an academy, at such a school.” I had set a goal and I'm so happy that I was able to accomplish it. But that's not the end, of course. Being educated doesn't mean you've solved everything just yet. I also participated in the workshops in England. I am still thinking about going to England and attending workshops again because acting has no end.

You have been involved in the same projects with valuable artists since your first role. What kind of experience was it for you to work with such successful artists as Türkan Şoray, Tarık Akan, Sadri Alışık, Eşref Kolçak and Aydan Şener?

Of course, all these names and their valuable acting have taught me. I've had a couple valuable actors I took as an example. Certainly, there are many aspects they added to my acting, and I thank them because the actor acts with the actor in front of him. This is a very important exchange. Since I have acted alongside many valuable and professional actors, I think it has surely had a positive effect on me.

During these experiences, have there been those that have motivated and challenged you?

Before anything else, we observe people and try to express them. My motivation and source of inspiration is of course life, our existence. Other than that there is my family and my son. My son motivates me greatly. The sensitivity of a person who is interested in art can be a bit too much. Thanks to my son I can file down those parts of myself and come back down to reality. Of course there have also been challenging aspects. We're talking about age six. When you're a child, while your peers are playing games, you are on set and have responsibilities. I suppose that the development of this sense of responsibility first started in my family and then continued on the set. Being around much older people at such a young age also help you to mature.

"Çalığışu / The Wren" is a valuable production for all of us. What are some of the effects this project and the character of Munise have played in your professional life?

It really was a project that has had a special place in my heart. I remember all those who put effort into this project with respect, and commemorate all those who are no longer among us.

"Çalığışu / The Wren" really is a cult series. A project that is still in the minds of many and has been adapted numerous times. The projects produced during that time were full of rich actors such as Aydan Şener, Kenan Kalav, Sadri Alışık and others. I am very fortunate to have been able to work with so many valuable actors and Osman Seden. Giving life to the character of Munise was the first important performance of my artistic life.

The 2000 production TV film "Beni Unutma / Do Not Forget Me", is a painful and touching story... How do you interpret this production and your personal adventure?

I loved that project and I was greatly moved by it. It does have a sad story ... The effect of the role goes on inside you. Just like its name, it really was an unforgettable project. I would say it was a cinema - like project even though it was a television movie. We even thought about why we didn't make it into a feature film. In fact, "Figüran / Figurant" was also a television movie that was a cinema - like project. I worked alongside Selçuk Yöntem. I really am lucky, I've worked with very valuable actors.

There must have been a character in the series and movies you have acted that has absorbed you completely....

We have mentioned "Çalığışu / The Wren", so without a doubt the character of Munise. The character of Munise has a special quality for me. I keep Munise in a special place because she has a story that hurts me deeply.

Does your theater work continue?

Right now we're corresponding with a director about a comedy project, but it's not certain yet. If it follows through, I will act with my dear friend Filiz Kılıç from the State Theater. I love comedy and I enjoy taking part in it. Let's see...

Is there a distinction between cinema and theater for you?

Of course theater and film acting are different but acting basically involves the same training. As well as the nuances are well recognized... A good actor is a person who realizes the nuances and brings them to life. So I just think there's a distinction about getting well aware of the nuances. While millimetric calculations are made, on the other hand, there are gestures and voices to be heard in the back row, and your body language is transferred accordingly. At the theatre, you have the ability to instantly get feedback and to feel that tension right away, but of course cinema has another sort magic...

"A good actor is a person who realizes the nuances and brings them to life."

We see that productions are universally based and densely moved to the digital world. What are your comments on this issue? Do you follow digital productions?

Although I cannot follow them immensely, I know that there are very good series and movies on online portals like Netflix. I think we have to keep up with the times. Some things are always changing; nothing stays in the same place.

We haven't seen you on screens for a long time. How did you decide to take part in a series "Söz / Promise"?

First of all, the character moved me. I was excited to act an unusual character and a character I have never acted before. She is a knife - edge character, the perfect role for an actor. I accepted the project with the belief that I could offer something different with this role. I hope I have achieved that, even though my character lasted a short time...
(Laughs)

"Music is very exciting"

Acting and music... You have projects in both sectors. Which is more enjoyable and which gets you more excited?

It's hard to separate the two. I think they are both branches of art that feed off one another but music dominates for me. For me, music is a medium where you can express yourself, but when acting you take on a character and a completely different situation occurs. With music, you are completely yourself and can express that to the audience. That's why music is so exciting to me.

The pieces that belong to you in your album stand out. Do you have any compositions that we don't know yet?

Yes... Actually there are a few new songs that we have composed. I wrote the lyrics, but I'm thinking of giving one of them priority and releasing it as a single. I can say that I spend a lot of time intertwined with music. I think I'd like to share this single within this year without delay. I continue working on them with pleasure. The records will be made soon; everyone will be able to see.

How does it feel to sing your own compositions?

It's the hardest because you are so careful. Of course, I am very careful with every project that comes my way and every piece I sing. When it comes to your own composition or a song that belongs to you, that diligence doubles internally.

Can we learn what it is like to be an artist mother, your thoughts on motherhood and your relationship with your son?

It's actually difficult because my working hours are unclear. I can't be a classic mother when being on set is the case. The time you arrive on set is certain, but the departure is always not clear. It is difficult to explain this situation to your child because he naturally wants to be with his mother. It gets easier to grasp as he grows, and I think my son can perceive what I'm doing now.

What are the activities that you enjoy the most with your son?

We like playing Jenga. Sometimes we play board games. We like to spend time together on Caddebostan beach. Deniz also likes reading books. We take our books, food and drinks and go to the beach. It is very enjoyable for us to spend time together on the beach by the sea. We play games and read from time to time. We have a great time together as mother and son.

It is obvious that all your family members are related to art somehow. Your father has a book "Yazmazsam Olmaz / I Can't Not Write" which talks about Şile. Could you tell us about those times?

Şile is truly a special place; I was born there and grew up there. I've tasted the warmth that the town brings. There was such a thing as neighborhood relations, which does not exist nowadays. Everyone knew each other and the doors of most houses would not be locked. I grew up in a safe environment. Of course, I forget how many times I locked the door in İstanbul right now (Laughs). I grew up in a warmer and more intimate environment, and I am lucky because not everyone gets that. Şile has its own characteristic nature. Yes the sea can be dangerous, but I learned how to swim in that sea (Laughs).

We heard that you would be happy to take part in a musical where you can show your talents in music and acting. It seems that successful musicals will be staged in our country in the future. Will you take any initiatives towards a musical?

I've always had such a desire. I've always combined music and acting.

I never received a musical project, but the training I received is very appropriate for one. I received education on jazz dance, modern dance, acting and singing which are necessary for a musical. I'm tailor made for musical! (Laughs) Jokes aside, of course I would like to take part in a musical project.

We know you've been interested in yoga lately. The physical and spiritual benefits of yoga are undeniable. Relaxation, concentration and motivation are all important points for your job and your life. What were the factors that led you to start practicing yoga?

It is very difficult for a person to capture a physical and mental balance. Today's living standards and conditions do not make it possible. I wanted yoga to bring balance to my life; internally I wanted to gain awareness. I thought it would have many pros for mental and spiritual calmness.

Isn't it difficult to receive yoga training during the intensive set hours? How did the idea of becoming a trainer come about?

It was a little difficult because when I want to achieve something, I want to achieve it fully. I was a bit hard to complete my training in yoga because I was on set for the series "Söz / Promise". My work schedule coincided with several lessons, but I completed them with compensatory lessons. Then I concentrated little more on yoga. A British friend from England whom I attended the same school with told me about the training she gives where she combines drama and yoga. When I visited her and attended her training, I thought "Why don't I do this in Turkey?" This is my goal but let's see what time has to show.

And finally, will we continue to see you in new projects? Is there a special name you want to work together with?

There is talk about some new projects at the moment but it is a chance. Let's see I'm still waiting (Laughs). I would really like to work with Nuri Bilge Ceylan.

Bring Your Hobby Ideas to Your Decoration

The popular trend “DIY (Do It Yourself)” projects bring life back to forgotten, obsolete objects. DIY projects change the vibes of your living space by utilizing and bringing value back to unused objects. Creative projects that you can apply in your home or office space is sure to be a source of inspiration for your decoration ideas.

Transform your tennis rackets into decorative mirrors

What do you say to transform your tennis rackets, which have been pushed away to the attic, into extraordinary mirrors? For this project all you need is a tennis racket, adhesive glue and a mirror cut to the size of your racket. You can start by gluing your pre-cut mirror onto the net of your racket. Then all there is to do is picking the perfect spot for your mirrors. If you wish, you can animate a large wall with a few rackets or you can give your children's room a new design.

If you have an old television you don't want to throw away, you can transform it into a cute aquarium.

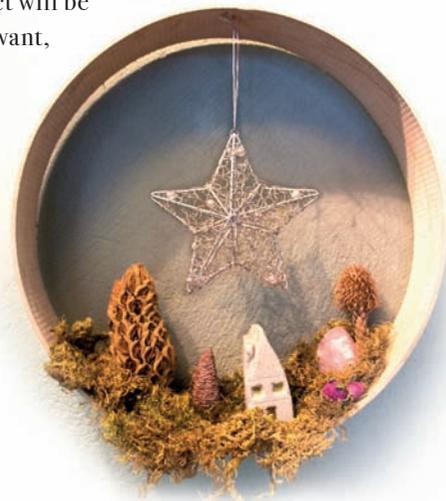

Do not throw away obsolete televisions

The fact that tube televisions, which were once precious, are not in circulation any longer have lead to new ideas about how to use them. The large interior volume in particular allows the evolution of old TVs with different ideas. If you have an old television you don't want to throw away, you can transform it into a cute aquarium. Firstly you must open up the TV, remove all parts and clean the interior fully, including the glass. Later make a hole on the top of the TV and fill all cracks with silicone to prevent leaking. Once the silicone is dry, fill up the TV with water and wait 15 - 20 minutes and check for water leakage. You can color your aquarium with lights and various objects. You might also want to consider add-ons for water cleaning and air conditioning. This will be necessary for the health of your fish. You can also try this idea on obsolete computer monitors.

The problem of finding a shelf suitable for your home is now history

Are you looking for minimalist shelves that reflect your style to your TV wall, but don't want to settle for the standard shelves sold in every furniture store? Here is a very simple and practical idea for you! The materials you need for this project will be flour sieves in any diameter you want, shelves in lengths appropriate to the diameters of the sieves and various objects to decorate. You can start by varnishing the shelves first. Then place the racks in your dry sieves as desired and secure with small nails. Your shelves are ready! You can also decorate with objects without placing a shelf in your sieves.

What do you say to combining your love of music with your love of books? An old piano or a guitar will be enough!

What do you say to creating a piano library?

If you have a stylish old piano in your house, we offer you a difficult but great transformation idea. First, separate the frame of the piano from its feet and hang it on a wall of your home. Fix the shelves to your taste and place your most valuable books on the shelves. You can enhance your library with LED lights. The same goes for transforming an old guitar. It will be really enjoyable to combine your love of music with your love of books.

Make Drinking Water Enjoyable

The most important source for the continuity of life and what the metabolism needs the most is undoubtedly the substance of water. Water constitutes 60 - 70% of our bodies and is the cornerstone of life. It is very important to consume enough water to maintain the body's water ratio and ensure proper operation of all body systems. Dietician Emine Yüzbaşıoğlu, from Memorial Ankara Hospital, draws attention to the importance of water in our lives and lists methods to make drinking water enjoyable.

There is no benefit but harm in consuming a lot of water

If there is no discomfort such as fever, diarrhea or constipation, the amount of water a healthy person should drink daily is between 1.5 - 2 liters. Of course, physical activity and air temperature can increase the amount of water to be consumed daily. However, studies have shown that consuming more than the needed amount does not have any benefits in terms of health for the body. It is important to not to over consume water, which can lead to water poisoning.

Tea and coffee consumption does not meet the need for water

Coffee, tea and acidic beverages do not replace the need for water. On the contrary, over - consumption of such drinks reduces the need for water by suppressing the feeling of thirst.

Lack of sense of thirst can cause the body not to meet its daily water needs.

Dark colored urine is a red flag

Looking at the color of urine can determine whether a person drinks the appropriate amount of water during the day. If the urine color is dark yellow, it shows that water consumption is inadequate; light yellow or clear on the other hand indicates that enough water is consumed. Poor water consumption can lead to health problems such as fatigue, weakness, low blood pressure and skin dryness. It should be noted that there is no water tank in the body. Therefore, maximum daily water consumption should be taken into consideration.

Reasons to drink water

- Water is the main solvent of all nutrients, vitamins and minerals. Water separates the nutrients in the body into small pieces, helping digestion and the removal of waste materials from the body.
- Water dilutes blood and prevents blood clotting during circulation.

"You can increase the flavor of water by adding apple, cinnamon, mint leaves, ginger, strawberry and grapes."

- Water softens skin and helps reduce aging symptoms.
- Water prevents constipation and kidney stone formation.
- Water helps relieve stress, tension and depression.
- Water helps weight loss by accelerating the metabolism.
- Water works to protect the structures of cells and tissues.
- Water helps regulate body temperature.
- Water strengthens body resistance and immunity.

Make drinking water enjoyable

There are many people who say they don't like drinking water because they don't enjoy the taste of it or they can't remember to drink it throughout the day. Here are a few practical suggestions that will help you gain the habit of drinking water.

- Do not wait to feel thirsty to drink water.
- Set reminders to drink water on your phone, computer and via small notes.
- Keep a colorful and elegant water jug, glass or bottle in a place that is visible at home or at work.
- You can increase the flavor of water by adding apple, cinnamon, mint leaves, ginger, strawberry and grapes.

If you have chosen to enjoy your breakfast somewhere by the sea, do not forget to take a long walk and inhale the fresh scent of the sea.

The Capital of Tolerance and Civilization

HATAY

The result of archaeological research held in Hatay, one of the oldest settlements in Turkey, indicates that the city actually dates back to an older history. The studies carried out in the region, a unique land that has accommodated many different civilizations to the present day, unearthed interesting findings dating from 100,000 to 40,000 BC. We have compiled the historical and touristic beauties of Hatay, one of the first settlements of humanity where different civilizations and beliefs lived together, a city of peace, brotherhood and tolerance.

"If you want to enjoy a cup of coffee to top off the unique tastes of Hatay cuisine, we recommend you visit Affan Kahvesi, a former French Consulate, where traces of history can be found in every corner. Paired with coffee, sweet custard, ice cream and traditional haytali dessert made with rose water are among the Hatay delicacies you must try."

CHURCH OF SAINT PIERRE

The Church of Saint Pierre succeeds to be the center of attention in Hatay due to its spiritual aspect and by being the first Catholic church in the world. The church exhibits the appearance of a mysterious cave, while awakening the value of historical consciousness with the designs of the mosaic floors. The church near Habib-i Neccar Mountain, which is two kilometers away from the city on Antakya - Reyhanlı road, has a mystic value since it was acknowledged as the pilgrimage place of the Christianity by Pope Paul VI in 1983. For this reason, the church, where religious ceremonies are held by Catholics on June 29th every year, had a great importance for Christians.

TİTUS TUNNEL

In order to prevent floodwater by order of the Roman Emperor Vespasian, the Titus Tunnel, which was built by a thousand prisoners, is located in the district of Samandağ in Hatay. The tunnel, which the prisoners shaped by carving the mountain with hammers, has a length of three hundred and eighty meters, a height of seven meters and a width of six meters. The Beşikli Cave is located approximately one hundred meters from the tunnel and is located within the tourist guides' route with its architectural structure and splendid monuments. The tunnel, a unique natural wonder made with human labor, is one of the most assertive areas among the touristic sites of Hatay.

MONASTERY OF SAINT SIMEON

When you're in Antakya, there is a long list of places to see. Founded in the 6th century, in an area far from sight, on the border of Defne and Samandağ districts, lies the Saint Simeon Monastery that occupies an important place in the city's religious tourism. The monastery, sitting on top of 10 meters high stone columns, is where Saint Simeon spent his 45 years of retreat and is an attraction to both local inhabitants and foreign tourists. The historic area, where the church, the baptistery, the cistern and other architectural remains can be seen, is home to visitors with its wind roses and the architecture that is identified with nature.

"Known as the city of brotherhood and unity, Hatay offers an unforgettable experience to its guests with its long history and nature as well as its cuisine."

ANTAKYA ARCHEOLOGY MUSEUM

Antakya, which used to be the center of Hatay before it became a cosmopolitan structure and is the largest district in terms of population, is reminiscent of a fascinating art painting with the splendid Asi River. Antakya Archeology Museum, which is considered to be the second richest mosaic museum in the world, presents mythological traces from different periods. The historical museum, which contains works from the Roman and Byzantine periods, welcomes visitors with the magnificent statue of Apollo, the God of the Sun, and the gods of the Olympian, who find life in the mosaics, guide visitors during their visit.

HABİB-İ NECCAR MOSQUE

The mosque, getting its name from Habib-i Neccar who was the first to believe in and die for the first Apostles of Jesus, Yuhanna and Pavlos has the distinction of being the first mosque in Anatolia. The historical mosque is believed to have been a cultural heritage from the Ottoman Period to the present day and it is known that it was built as a religious symbol for Hatay, a city which was conquered and Islamized by His Holiness Ömer. The building, which has suffered from many earthquakes and collapses since its construction, has been accepted as an important historical symbol.

HARBIYE WATERFALL

Known for its natural beauty as well as its historical structures, Harbiye is known as the waterfall region of Hatay and the ancient city of the period attracting both local and foreign tourists with its immaculate and extraordinary nature. The waterfalls formed by the gushing sources from the south of plato are mixed with the Asi River in all its splendor after a 1,5 km long flow. To reach the stunning waterfalls of Harbiye, which is connected to the town of Defne, Antakya, you must pass through the lush green trees where a pleasant journey awaits you with cute counters accompanied by smiling faces.

What to Eat?

With over 400 different dishes and flavors, Hatay cuisine's most favored dish is Belen tava. Don't forget to turn your route to Belen to taste the flavor of the tasteful meat roast prepared with special spices and sauces.

BAKRAS CASTLE

Bakras Castle, which is the biggest witness of a sad love story dating back to ancient times, has an important place among the cultural heritage of Hatay. According to its architecture, Bakras Castle, which is clearly regarded as a Hellenistic piece of work, serves as an important passage between the Mediterranean and the Middle East.

Don't Lose an Eye While Trying Tester Products

Cosmetic products are at the top of the essentials list of women of all ages. On the shelves of the shops that host hundreds of women every day, there is undoubtedly at least one tester product available, because during shopping cosmetic products are tested on the skin to see how they look. This means that hundreds of people use these tester products one after the other.

Ophthalmology Specialist

Dr. Şehvar Nefesoğlu explains that tester products are bacterial nests and which should be stayed away from, for the health of our eyes.

Makeup, which makes every woman feel more beautiful, also brings along the necessity of correct product selection. Tester products are preferred to understand whether the product to be selected matches skin tone.

However, all visitors one after another use these products, which are not personalized. Even though, just like a toothbrush, only one person should use these makeup products. It is not possible to know if the person who has used the product before has a virus, infection or any other disease. Thus, people can be infected with various diseases by sharing these personal products. Some of these diseases include skin fungi, scabies, bacterial conjunctivitis and trachoma. Therefore, it is of great importance for eye health that cosmetic stores do not use open tester products such as eye shadows, eyeliners and mascaras.

Attention to the risk of mold in open products

Cosmetic products that have been open for a long time can form mold, which cannot be seen with the naked eye. For this reason, the use of tester products that are applied to the eye area can affect eye health negatively.

Avoid exchanging cosmetic products with your friends

The multiple uses of makeup products are unfortunately not limited to cosmetic stores. Makeup materials circulating in the hands of close friends can also bring the risk of eye infections because even the closest to us can carry viral and bacterial viruses. Therefore, no matter what the degree of closeness is, personal makeup products should not be shared with others.

Do not underestimate conjunctivitis

Conjunctivitis caused by the common use of articles such as cosmetics, towels, pillowcases and handkerchiefs can cause redness, watering, burning, itching, sensitivity to light and yellowish discharge to the eyes. Sometimes even the cornea can be affected by the inflammation, causing visual impairment.

Trachoma can result in blindness

The trachoma virus is a disease that is transmitted from person to person. Items that are exchanged between people such as makeup products, towels and pillows, can thus spread the virus. The virus first exhibits itself with redness and pain in the eyes and then spreads with swelling and discharge. Trachoma is a serious disease that can result in blindness.

Cosmetic products may also invite skin fungi

Skin fungus, which result from fungi microorganisms, spread by close body contact from person to person. Itching, reddening and burning can result where the fungus is formed and may result in wounds or redness. Mange, which also spreads through touch, can be caused by the common use of cosmetic materials, bedding, bed linen, laundry and other personal items. Itching and skin rashes manifest mange.

AN IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT IN TYPE 1 DIABETES

Scientists at the University of San Francisco, California announced that they converted stem cells in the body into insulin - producing cells, as a result of their studies. This study, which is to be considered as a very big step in the history of medicine, has the potential to cure patients of diabetes. As a result of research conducted on the islet cells found in the pancreas, the pancreas stem cells, which are partially different, were translated and their development was accelerated, bringing the response to blood sugar levels closer to those in adult cells. According to the scientists' studies, effective growth was achieved even in alpha and delta cells. For now, only the method tested on laboratory mice yielded a favorable result. If the progress of the studies continues along these lines, important steps will be taken in the treatment of type 1 diabetes.

BRUSSELS WAFFLE

1 SERVING

INGREDIENTS

250 grams of flour
2 eggs
100 grams of melted butter
4 tablespoons powdered sugar
20 grams fresh yeast
250 ml of warm milk
250 ml of warm water
2 packs of vanillin
1 pinch of salt

Toppings:

Whipped cream and raspberries. Strawberry, banana, chocolate, hazelnut, walnut can be added according to preference.

INSTRUCTIONS

Flour, vanillin and sugar are put in a bowl. The yeast is thawed in warm water and poured into the middle of the floury mixture. Warm milk and melted butter are added to the mixture without burning. Then, egg yolks are added and mixed with high speed until there are no chunks of flour. The egg whites are whisked in another bowl until they become foamy. And then the mixture is stirred slowly with spoon, adding the whipped mixture to the dough mixture.

Finally, the salt is blended and the mixture is put aside covered to rest for one hour. After an hour, the mixture will become a dough - like paste. If the dough is poured into the waffle machine after the machine is thoroughly heated, it will not stick to the machine or start to flake. The scoop size dough put into the machine should be cooked for about 3 minutes and set aside to cool slightly. After cooling, it can be decorated and served upon request.

CHEESECAKE

INGREDIENTS

300 grams of oatmeal biscuits
 110 grams of butter
 700 grams of cream cheese
 4 eggs (at room temperature)
 1 cup of granulated sugar
